MTI Appoints New Chief Marketing Officer

Leading Storage Technology Solutions Provider Hires Former NetApp Marketing Executive

GODALMING, SURREY, UK, 22 September 2008 — MTI, the leading international provider of consulting services and comprehensive information infrastructure solutions for mid- to large-size organizations, today announced the appointment of Aad Dekkers to the position of Chief Marketing Officer (CMO) and Head of Business Development. Aad will direct MTI's marketing strategy and business development. Aad will report directly to Keith Clark, MTI's Chief Executive Officer (CEO).

Aad joins MTI from NetApp (NASDAQ:NTAP), where he was the Director of Products, Solutions & Alliance Marketing for the EMEA region. Aad was responsible for launching new Products and Solutions and building successful relationships with vendors such as VMware and Citrix across EMEA. He was the European spokesperson for media and analysts and served on the board of SNIA Europe on behalf of NetApp.

In addition to his work at NetApp, Aad has held a number of marketing and technical roles for technology companies such as Sun, Tulip and ICL.

In his new role, Aad will lead MTI's marketing team, which is responsible for defining the company's marketing strategy to increase awareness, revenue and margin. He will work directly with MTI's partners such as EMC, Cisco, Sepaton, Riverbed, CA, Quantum and VMware.

"Aad's successful track record for leading marketing strategies in technology companies across Europe brings welcome expertise to the strong bench of executive talent at MTI," said Terry Garnett, MTI's Chairman of the Board and managing director and cofounder of Garnett & Helfrich Capital. "MTI is poised for significant growth, especially given its history of having a broad and loyal customer base in Europe, and Aad's experience will expand the company's opportunities regarding its brand and customer relationships."

"Aad Dekkers brings relevant experience and expertise necessary to expand the brand of MTI and augment its reputation throughout Europe," said MTI CEO Keith Clark. "We believe it is the right time for MTI to invest significantly in marketing to fuel its continuous growth."

About Garnett & Helfrich Capital

Formed in March 2004, Garnett & Helfrich Capital is a $350 million private equity fund focused exclusively on the emerging venture buyout segment for mid-sized technology spinouts. The firm specializes in spinning out businesses from large global technology companies and growing them as focused, standalone businesses. Investments include Wyse Technology (world leader in thin-client computing), Ingres (open source enterprise database company spun out from Computer Associates) and Blade Network Technologies (an industry-leading supplier of network infrastructure divested from Nortel Networks). In December 2007, Garnett & Helfrich Capital purchased MTI from its previous owner, MTI Technology Corporation, in a court-supervised auction. This transaction established MTI Europe as a new, standalone company and it was renamed MTI. More information on Garnett & Helfrich Capital is available at www.garnetthelfrich.com.
